

0404781 Advanced Process Optimization

Modern optimization theory, algorithms, and applications in process engineering. Topics include the fundamentals of linear programming, integer programming, nonlinear programming, mixed-integer nonlinear programming, and stochastic programming. The focus is on the application of large-scale optimization methods to solve real-world application problems in process engineering.