

0404733 Computational Fluid Dynamics

The focus of this course will be initially on computational methods for practical fluid flow problems. The focus will be expanded to accommodate mass transfer, heat transfer, turbulent and multiphase systems. Software CFD packages will be implemented in the solution of selected topics in these diverse chemical engineering applications.