

0403466 Intelligent Transportation System

Introduction for intelligent infrastructure and the associated technologies (basic knowledge for the sensing used in transportation engineering), Fundamentals and field studies of information technologies deployed and emerging to address critical transportation issues such as congestion, safety, security, and energy efficiency.